LeinerLaura.Q: Can not fix line numbers in zsh I am using zsh in macOS High Sierra. I am trying to configure my line numbers to be fixed. Whenever I do an edit and then type :set -nC the top line numbers jump to the top of the file instead of staying in line with where I was. A: To fix this, you need to fix where zsh is displaying the line number. By default, it's in the bottom right corner of the screen. To fix this, put set -g noclearw in your ~/.zshrc file. If you want zsh to continue to display the line number at the bottom left corner of the screen when editing a file, set this in your ~/.z
